ONE LIFE LOST WHEN SMALL CRAFT SANK

Gas Boat Bound Across Strait to Victoria When Explosion Occurred

W. Corter of Tacoma, Master, Perished; V. Williams and
J. Brown Burned

Port Townsend, July 14.—One man was killed and two severely injured when the gas boat Tanah went to the bottom in the Strait of San Juan de Fuca late Saturday night following a mysterious explosion aboard the vessel.
Captain William Corter, master of the craft, lost his life and Victor Williams and Jack Brown were badly burned but are expected to recover.

The Tanah was proceeding from Port Townsend to Victoria when the explosion occurred. The vessel was quickly enveloped in flames.
Captain Corter was blown into the air and fell back into the blazing boat, going down with it. Williams and Brown were rescued by the crew of the boat Wesley, commanded by Captain Peterson of Seattle.
The Tanah was registered in Tacoma, the home of Corter, Williams and Brown.

A RUM RUNNER
Williams and Brown, who were passengers in the boat, admitted to visitors at the Marine Hospital here that the speedy launch had been engaged in rum running.

"Nothing to the booze running game any more," the men agreed.

bushels, as compared with 816,000 for May, 1923.

Small Seattle Freighter Took

Vancouver, July 14.—Active Pass, the turbulent channel between Galiano Island and Mayne Island, on the route between Vancouver and the ports of Victoria and Seattle, claimed the lives of two seamen, almost brought a third sailor to a similar death, took a toll of many thousands of dollars' worth of cargo and almost added another chapter to the list of marine disasters in the Gulf of Georgia and Puget Sound waters when the small freighter Morning Star, Port Townsend, was caught in a tide rip at 11 o'clock yesterday morning.

Carrying a heavy cargo of valuable freight to Vancouver from Seattle, the craft was given a sudden list to starboard and she lay with that side almost level with the water's edge for about an hour before sufficient cargo was thrown overboard to bring her to an even keel.

SLIPPED OVERBOARD
The men drowned went overboard in the sudden list. They were Elmer Blycker, nineteen, Seattle, and Robert McKee, twenty-two, Seattle.

Robert Wallace, Seattle, was rescued after being tobogganed overboard with his two companions.

issued by the Bureau of Statistics estimate the Canadian wheat crop for this year at 318,640,000 bushels. The crop last year was 474,199,000 bushels.

Estimated yields of wheat, oats, barley and flaxseed in bushels are:

Crop	Prairie Provinces	Rest of Canada	All Canada
Wheat	300,530,000	18,110,000	318,640,000
Oats	267,600,000	156,023,000	423,623,000

Flaxseed	6,031,000	104,000	6,135,000

The indicated yields are subject to change due to any subsequent revision of areas sown, and also to the effects of the season between June 30 and harvest.

ABSENTEE VOTE COUNT IS WELL UNDER WAY; LIBERAL ELECTED IN FORT GEORGE

With the Oliver Government already conceded Fort George, one of a few doubtful seats, the final result of the recent Provincial election is being decided to-day by the counting of absentee ballots.

Progress reported by returning officers at noon indicated that the outcome of the Provincial poll will not be known definitely before Friday. The only ridings in which changes are considered possible are: Vancouver, where the election of Mrs. Mary Ellen Smith, instead of General A. D. McKee, is generally anticipated;
North Vancouver, Point Grey-Richmond and Alberni.

Fort George, which was in the doubtful column, has returned to the Liberal column by the following vote:
H. G. Berry, Liberal, 1,078; P. P.
Burden, Conservative, 1,028; J. A.
Shearer, Provincial, Okanagan and Kamloops, Conservative, 1,028; J. A.
Shearer, Provincial, Okanagan and South Okanagan are the only other ridings in which the absentee-ballots have been counted. The final figures in North Okanagan were: Coltart 52;
Ellison 54; Howe 85; Macdonald 139.
Corrected ballot now stands: Coltart, Provincial, 1,078; Ellison, Provincial, Conservative, 744; Howe, Conservative, 905; Macdonald, Liberal, 1,362.

South Okanagan final figures were:
Jones, Conservative, 2,009; Latour, Liberal, 1,315; Lodge, Labor, 125; Ly-sons, Provincial, 340. For beer, 1,270; against, 2,429.
The final figures in Kamloops were:
Colley, Liberal, 1,212; Meighen, Conservative, 937; Palmer, Provincial, 720; Beer, for, 1,351; against, 1,541.
The result of the beer plebiscite in Fort George and North Okanagan is not known yet.

Counting of absentee ballots will commence here to-morrow, provided no delays occur in the meantime.
Returning Officer W. P. Marchant is busy to-day checking up votes cast in Victoria. The final Victoria figures probably will not be known for two days.

Logging Railway Bridges
Near Rock Bay, Vancouver Island, Destroyed

Vancouver, July 14.—Forest
fires at Rock Bay, Redonda Island, Narrows Arm and Haslam Lake continue out of control. New outbreaks occurred over the week-end at Read Island and at the Seymour Creek intake.

The fire on Read Island, which is about 100 miles north of Vancouver, is being fought by a logging crew.

Four more logging railway bridges have been destroyed by the Rock Bay fire. The fire fighters at that point, which is about 150 miles north of Vancouver, on Vancouver Island, are handicapped by dense clouds of smoke and transportation difficulties.

LINES PREPARED Lines have been built north and west of Haslam Lake to shut off the fire there, raging on the mountainside, from areas of merchantable timber.
The fire at Narrows Arm is burning high on the mountain sides.

Nootka Sound, Gonzales Hill, the

This monument has been erected by the Historic Sites and Landmarks Board of Canada after representation had been made by the president of the British Columbia Historical Association, His Honor Judge Howay.
A very fine site for the monument was selected by J. P. Forde, district Public Works Engineer, who also supervised its erection.

The structure will be seven feet broad by eleven feet high, with a standard size bronze tablet bearing the following inscription:

First Lieut. Ronald C. Watson, His Wife, Mrs. Aimee Watson, and Three Seamen Boys, William Nedler, Henry Fletcher and George Williams Lose Lives in Tragic Accident

VICTIMS OF TRAGEDY

Lieutenant Ronald C. Watson, R.C.N., of Edmonton.
Mrs. Aimee E. Watson.
William Nedler, of Vancouver.
Henry C. Fletcher, of St. Thomas, Ont.
George E. Williams, of Toronto.

Five lives was the toll demanded by the sea late on Saturday when a naval whaleboat was upset under mysterious circumstances off Ross Bay. The waterlogged whaleboat was found off the shore at Hollywood Crescent on Sunday morning. The body of Mrs. Aimee Watson was recovered shortly afterwards floating in the kelp off Clover Point.

Despite the fact that a continuous search has been maintained no trace had been found up to a late hour to-day of the remaining bodies. The drowning accident marks the worst tragedy that has happened in these waters in years.

At 3.30 o'clock on Saturday afternoon a whaleboat left Esquimalt under sail in charge of Lieut. Ronald C. Watson, R.C.N., an instructor at the naval barracks. Accompanying him were Mrs.
Watson and three seamen boys, William Nedler, Henry C. Fletcher and George E. Williams. The boys were out on an instruction cruise.

When the party failed to return to Esquimalt at sundown the naval authorities at the Navy Yard became anxious and at once instituted a search. Vessels in the strait were notified by wireless to keep a sharp lookout for a sail craft that might be in distress. At daybreak on Sunday morning the destroyer Patricia was sent out to conduct a search and a seaplane was brought over from Vancouver to participate in scouring the waters of the Gulf. The finding of the waterlogged boat and the body of Mrs. Watson confirmed the fears of disaster.

OFFICIAL BULLETIN

An official bulletin issued by Commander Charles F. Beard, senior naval officer at Esquimalt, gives a summary of the circumstances that led up to the tragedy and its possible cause.

OFFICIAL BULLETIN

The senior naval officer, Esquimalt, regrets to report a sad accident which resulted in the loss of five lives during Saturday afternoon sailing practice.

Lieut. Ronald C. Watson, R.C.N., whose keenness in the interests of the naval service was unbounded, made a habit of devoting his half-holidays in furthering the knowledge of young seamen who wished to learn their profession; and it was on one of these occasions that he lost his life. He was accompanied in this instance by Mrs. Watson herself, an experienced boat-sailor, and three seamen boys, aged about 17 1/2 years.

Lieut. Watson left Esquimalt harbor about 3.30 p.m. to sail about outside Victoria until sunset, and was apparently homeward bound against a rising wind, when it was thought that the centreboard (drop-keel) became entangled in thick kelp, which would arrest the boat's way and cause her to upset, and so throw the occupants into the water, where they in turn became entangled in the kelp, which abounds near Poul Bay, and

ENERGY

Basically, all energy is electrical. Energy produces every change in matter. It causes the rusting of the bright steel blade. It forms the diamond hidden in the earth. Energy evolves the mighty oak from the acorn of yesterday. In time it buries it beneath the earth, there to transform it into coal.

Energy governs every action of the human body. It controls the growth of muscle, tissue and cell. It is responsible for the production and circulation of your blood, and for the output of your glandular products.

A normal supply of energy means normal health. An incorrect and insufficient supply of energy means disease—perhaps death.

THE BRAIN

The brain is the electrical battery of the human body. It is constantly charging and discharging. It may be overcharged or undercharged. The health of lungs, heart, liver, stomach, blood and muscles, depend upon the energy those parts receive through the nervous system—from the brain. A wrong degree of energy supplied by the brain to any part of the body means a change in the nature and functioning of that part. Disease is the result of such a change in some parts of the body. There can be no normally charged brain if the eye is malformed. You cannot have health without a normally charged brain.

If You Are Suffering, Your Brain Is Not Receiving and Transmitting the Degree of Energy Demanded
By Your Body

Why do you continue to suffer? As others have done, you can find out in a few minutes the cause of your condition, and the simple and easy treatment that will remove it. A visit to our office entails no charge for examination. You will be under no obligation to take our treatment. Ours is a public service of such exceptional merit as only Vancouver and Victoria can boast.

SAANICH ACCIDENT
CASE IN COURT

Witness Says He Was Asked to Sign Document Which Was Later Retracted

The sequel to an accident which took place near Royal Oak on the East Saanich Road on June 14 was heard in the Saanich Police Court this morning, during remanded proceedings against Mrs. Minnie Ryder. The accused is charged with failing to drive her car in a careful and prudent manner.

In the accident, the court was told today, Eugene Heale, 2743 Mount Stephen Avenue, and his sister, Miss Josephine Heale, were thrown from a motor bicycle to the pavement and injured. Miss Heale was taken to the St. Joseph's Hospital by the accused, following the accident.

Taking the stand for the prosecution Eugene Heale stated that he was dazed at the fall, and not fully conscious of what was going on. He was brought to town in company with his sister, and later taken to a lawyer's office, where a paper was put in front of him to sign.

Cross-examined by counsel for the defence, witness denied that he had understood what was in the document, which counsel said was a report of the accident for the police. Later the report was repudiated by the complainant and another entered. The hearing continues.

At the close of the hearing Magistrate Jay dismissed the charge. The police court, he said, could not be used in connection with the prosecution of civil rights.

ABSENTEE VOTE COUNT IS WELL UNDER WAY

Vancouver that in the beer plebiscite there absentee ballots cannot be counted, is without foundation, Premier Oliver believes.

"As I understand it, the prohibitionists assert that the absentee vote cannot be counted in the case of the beer plebiscite," the Premier remarked. "They quote the provisions of the special Act under which the plebiscite was held to show that these ballots cannot be considered in the general result. On the face of it that seems logical, but we must look further to understand the real position. There is a clause in the Act covering the plebiscite by which the provisions of the Elections Act apply in all these details, and of course, the Elections Act provides for the counting of absentee ballots. For that reason I think that the prohibitionists' point is fully covered and I do not believe that it can affect the result of the plebiscite. As for the talk of Conservatives seeking to upset the general election result in Vancouver I have given the matter no thought at all, but there are always talk of protests and irregularities in elections."

The Cabinet will make no move for several days at least as a result of the counting of the absentee ballots. Hon. W. H. Sutherland, Minister of Public Works, will be away a week on a holiday and no action, it is understood, will be taken in his absence.

COUNT IN VANCOUVER
It will not be until Friday at the earliest that the effect of the absentee vote in Vancouver will be known. It was stated at the "courthouse" this morning, where the work of making the check was resumed.

Returning Officer W. D. Balfour and his staff started this morning to open all the city ballot boxes to get out the poll books. This is necessary to ascertain whether the names on the envelopes containing absentee ballots had been voted in the city. There are 274 boxes to be opened. After the poll books are taken out the boxes are being re-sealed.

The procedure will be to check to find out if the absentee vote was cast in the city, whether the name of the voter is on the list, and if the signature on the envelope corresponds with that on the records.

Richmond Point Grey ballots are being checked this morning and may be counted today.

GREAT ADVERTISING
MEETING IN LONDON

convention which suggests international interest in the subject," he said. "When I see so many people in this hall from every part of the earth I am convinced this aim has been realized. You came together from all over to give and receive information and advice from each other regarding commercialism, which is the greatest problem we have to face today."

UNUSUAL SERMONS

The ethics and uses of advertising as novel subjects for pulpit oratory struck strangely on the ears of the congregations assembled yesterday for the morning services in both Westminster Abbey and the Westminister Roman Catholic Cathedral. True, the services were devoted to the overseas visitors to the advertising convention and the congregations largely consisted of English-speaking delegates from the United States and the Dominions, but that the Bishop of Durham in Westminster Abbey and Father Knox in the cathedral should have chosen such a worldly subject as the themes for their sermons was considered as showing the hold which the convention had already established upon the consciousness of the British people.

GREAT INFLUENCE

The Bishop of Durham spoke of the enormous influence of advertising on modern life.

Father Knox argued that there was no reason why the convention's slogan, "Truth in Advertising," should come as a surprise or that the people should be shocked even by the convention's proposal to debate the possibilities of advertising in religion. There was, he contended, no harm even in advertising a particular religion, so long as the advertisers were sure it came up to standards.

KELP FOULING CENTRE-
BOARD IS NAVAL THEORY OF SAD FATALITY OFF

Although four of the five were strong swimmers they would soon be overcome.

Boats carrying naval search parties patrolled outside Esquimalt harbor as far as Race Rocks throughout the night, but without result. H.M.C.S. Patricia proceeded to sea at 4 a.m. to aid in search. A seaplane was flown across from Vancouver, but her search was hampered by the fog.

At about 8 a.m. Edward Cave, a resident of 1730 Hollywood Crescent, sighted a waterlogged boat caught in the kelp off his home, which he succeeded with difficulty in extricating and towing into Foul Bay.

He then reported to the naval barracks at Esquimalt that he had found what appeared to be a naval boat. This was the first and only indication of the lost boat's whereabouts. Naval and police officers hurried to the scene to identify the body and found to their dismay that it was the one in which Lieut. Watson and his party were last seen.

"The boat was practically bare of its fittings, which indicated that it had been in difficulties. Oars, masts and sails, etc., have since been found along the waterfront between the breakwater and Trial Island."

"Mrs. Watson's body was found about 300 yards off Clover Point, and taken charge of by the city police. Other bodies have not yet been recovered, but there is little hope that they are still alive, as a systematic search was carried out and is being continued."

All next-of-kin have been informed. The names of the occupants of the boat are as follows: Lieut. Ronald C. Watson, R.C.N., of Edmonton; Mrs. Aimee E. Watson, Seamen Boys William Neider, of Vancouver; Henry C. Fletcher, of Thomas, Ontario; and George E. Williams, of Toronto."

SEARCH FOR BODIES

All available ratings from the Esquimalt naval barracks are continuing the search today for their lost and missing comrades. H.M.C.S. Patricia and every available cutter are being used in the search.

The first indication of anything wrong was given when the whaler and her complement failed to return from the practice sail. Lieut. Watson, accompanied by his wife and three seamen boys from the naval barracks, put off in the whaler, a twenty-seven-foot craft.

The first instruction Lieut. Watson was in the habit of taking parties of the younger boys in training for sailing practice. He was an experienced and level-headed man in a boat, and no fear was felt for the safety of the party. The wind was light with occasional squalls.

The whaler carried light sail and was seen to leave the harbor and head off towards Clover Point, flashing parties off Brodie Ledge remarked on the smart manner in which the craft was being handled. Then the wind freshened, driving most of the fishing boats under the lee of the breakwater.

The weather, Lieut. Watson stated, was not sufficient of itself to cause any apprehension.

Though many reports have seen a small boat heading seaward, before the wind off Dallas Road and some distance out to sea, there is at the moment no indication that the missing whaler was sighted in distress after she passed Ogden Point. The actual mishap, so far as can be ascertained at present, was not witnessed from the shore.

It is thought in official circles that the whaler was beating back against the wind when she fouled a kelp bed and was swamped. Her light drop keel or centreboard fouling in the strands of the kelp would be sufficient to put her over, it is believed.

KELP FOULING

From the scattered wreckage that has since floated ashore it is surmised that the whaler filled suddenly. Her mast and sail floated to the shore. The mainmast was found on the shore at the place where the body of Mrs. Watson was recovered from the kelp. A grey silk stocking and a button boot, recovered from the shore, are thought to be items worn by Mrs. Watson. Mrs. Watson may have taken off her shoes and stockings to avoid getting them wet in the sailing practice, it is assumed.

A sailor's vest was also recovered. As soon as word of the missing craft was reported all available ratings at Esquimalt joined in a search of the waters off Dallas Road from Trial Island to Race Rocks. Gun Straits were patrolled all Saturday night without result.

H.M.C.S. Patricia put out at 4 a.m. yesterday and joined in the search with a flotilla of cutters. Later, Major Godfrey flew over from the B.C. Air powered flying boat. Fog, however, hampered the movements of the searching boats, and apart from the wreckage and body near the shore, little was uncovered.

STATION AT JERICHO BEACH, IN A HIGH

SIGHTED WHALER

The whaler was found by Edward Cave, 1730 Hollywood Crescent, right side up, but awash to the gunwales. She was stripped of all gear. The finding of the body of Mrs. Watson in the kelp led to the surmise that the accident was due to the unexpected presence of kelp in the path of the oncoming whaler. Fishermen used to the tide waters off Dallas Road tell of the frequent occurrence of floating fields of kelp. A floating mass of kelp might well have been the cause of the disaster.

All day yesterday the sad search continued. As night fell efforts were concentrated on finding the bodies of the missing men. Earlier in the day the Provincial Police joined in the search, and patrolled the shore in the hope that other bodies would be brought in by the tide.

INQUEST TO BE HELD

Little or no hope is held out that any of the four missing men may survive. Their death by drowning is conceded. The inquest will be postponed in the hope that the remains of the victims of the pathetic accident may be retrieved from the sea.

POPULAR OFFICER

Lieut. Watson, twenty-seven, was one of the most popular officers of the Esquimalt naval barracks. He saw gallant service with the Royal Navy during the war and was a first lieutenant in the Royal Canadian Navy at the time of the disaster.

At the outbreak of war he was appointed to H.M.C.S. Good Hope, but the appointment was canceled before he joined the warship. He served in the North Sea and in the Mediterranean with British squadrons, and rose to be submarine commander, in which latter capacity he saw distinguished service.

CHILDREN LEFT

It was in 1914 that he met his wife, the late Mrs. Aimee Watson, an extremely pretty girl of Irish parentage. Mrs. Watson was only twenty-five years of age at the time of her pathetic end. Lieut. and Mrs. Watson leave two small children, one a child of three and the other but nine months old.

SEAMEN BOYS

Leading-boy William Neider, Vancouver, was nearing his eighteenth birthday. He was regarded as one giving high promise of a future career at his chosen calling.

He had already attained the rank of leading boy and would have won promotion in the course of a very short time.

Boy Henry C. Fletcher, seventeen, where his parents reside, to join the ranks of the Royal Canadian Navy. He was working his way up in the service and would have been rated ordinary seaman in a short time.

George E. Williams came from Toronto, and was also considered a lad of bright promise in the service. The appalling tragedy has cast a deep gloom over all ratings, and hour by hour the sad search goes on for the bodies of the missing men. Commander Beard and the officers of the naval barracks were shocked at the fatality. Commander Beard identified the remains of the late Mrs. Watson at the McCall Funeral Company premises yesterday. Funeral arrangements are being pending pending the search for the remaining victims of the disaster.

SERVED IN WAR

The late Mrs. Watson was an officer in a women's auxiliary corps during the war and served as an ambulance driver for some months within range of the guns. She was known as a cool-headed woman who was at home in a sailing craft, and had accompanied her husband on many trips before the ill-fated one of Saturday. From evidence found in the whaler it is thought that she was in the craft, and that she was right and bail the craft. The possibility of a struggle in which five people fought for their lives against the oncoming waves is considered. Some report hearing cries from the water about ten o'clock on Saturday night, but according to the officers who were in the craft, there have been complete long before that. The idea of making a light raft out of the spars may have occurred to the party, but the wreckage floated ashore bears out the fact that such an attempt was made.

spendings; also that the civil jurisdiction had been wrongly invoked, and that the section of the Criminal Code relating to speedy trials gave the defendants no right to elect for trial by a jury.

No question arose as to a violation of the principles of natural justice and, therefore, leave to appeal on the matter alone would have been refused. Lord Cave said:

COURT HAS POWER

Their lordships of the Judicial Committee had now been put in possession of the circumstances of the case as a whole. Lord Cave continued, and had found that no serious question had arisen concerning the jurisdiction of the Supreme Court to grant mandamus in such a case. That court was clothed by statute with all the powers formerly belonging to the Queen's Bench of Upper Canada, which had the power to grant a mandamus to an inferior court.

"No rules of leave to appeal to the Privy Council have yet been made as to mandamus under the Criminal Code," Lord Cave continued, "and under the circumstances there is nothing in their lordships' opinion to prevent the Supreme Court making a free use of its powers. There is no question of any irregular intrusion by the civil court in a criminal matter. Effective and effective ground of appeal therefore wholly fails."

NOT ALLOWED

"In the circumstances their lordships have considered whether they should allow the appeal to proceed on the second ground, and have come to the conclusion that this should not be allowed."

"Leave to appeal, was originally granted only on the first ground, and that ground having proved to possess no substance, the question reserved by the order giving leave to appeal, namely, whether the appeal should be entertained, arises for decision. Their lordships are of the opinion that the question should be decided on the first ground."

Livestock and Meat Board Establishes Fellowships For Research

Chicago, July 14.—Two fellowships of $2,000 each, with an additional $300 for expenses, have been established by the Livestock and Meat Board for the purpose of scientific research into the subject of meat. Columbia University and the University of Rochester receive the fellowships and in their laboratories the investigations will be made. The work will be launched this month, according to an announcement by the board here, which represents livestock producers, commission men, packers and retailers. The board will function in this project through the agency of the National Research Council at Washington. "Administration of the fellowships has been placed in the hands of Dr. E. B. Forbes, Dr. C. Robert Moulton and Dr. H. C. Sherman of the council's committee on food nutrition," said the announcement. "Subjects for investigation are the comparison of meat with other foods for blood regeneration and the comparison of meat with other high protein foods in reproduction and lactation, to be studied by adding the high-protein foods to the basal mixed diet composed of ordinary foods."

GERMAN FEDERAL EMPLOYEES FEWER

Berlin July 14.—Twenty-five per cent of the federal employees of Germany have been dismissed since April 1, in accordance with the economy programme embarked upon by the Government. Previous to that date the civil service payroll showed 55,555 officials, 69,747 office employees and 705,512 manual workers. Of this number 324,507 officials, 30,217 office employees and 232,134 workers have been dismissed. Besides 1,114 occasional employees working on commission were taken off the payroll. The Government estimates that this reduction means an annual saving of fifteen per cent of the Federal budget. The people hardest hit by the retrenchment order are married women. Practically all married women whose husbands have jobs were given notice of termination of employment.

MUCH TELEPHONE TIME IS WASTED BY WOMEN IN JAPAN

Tokio, July 14.—Feminine garrulity is one reason for the inefficiency of the Tokyo telephone service, according to an apologetic issued by the municipal telephone bureau. The statement says a large proportion of all calls are by women to women, and moreover when two women are talking much of their conversation is idle. To prove its point the telephone bureau gives detailed statistics, the manner of compiling which it does not explain, to show how much time is wasted in various classes of telephone conversations. When a woman is talking to a woman, it is claimed, 26.4 per cent of the talk is idle and unnecessary; when a woman calls a man, the waste is 13.8 per cent; when a man calls a woman, it is only 9.7 per cent; when two men talk, 10.6 per cent.

SIX DROWNED IN EASTERN CANADA

Man in Stalled Auto Killed by Train; Boy Killed by Lightning

Ottawa, July 14.—Fatalities were numerous in Eastern Canada over the week-end. There were six drownings, three of which occurred in the vicinity of Montreal, and Charles M. Fillmore, seventy-seven, was instantly killed when a train struck his stalled automobile near Truro, N.S. A boy was killed when lightning struck a tent at a camp near Montreal, and a man died from shock after touching a live wire at Montreal.

THEIR LAST RESORT

In a class of Greek history a youth was asked to tell the story of the battle of Thermopylae. The lad had unusual descriptive ability and proceeded with great zest. No detail was left out. The heroic stand was described vividly. "and they fought and fought and fought," said the pupil. "They fought until they lost their arms. Then they used their hands."

SCIENTISTS TO MEET IN CAPITAL OF PERU

Pan-American Gathering in November; Invitations Sent to United States

New York, July 14.—The third Pan-American Scientific Congress, which is to convene in Lima, Peru, next November, has extended a cordial invitation to as many professional and scientific men and women in this country as possible to be present. Official invitations are being sent out from the office in this city of Eduardo Higginson, Consul-General of Peru. The convention will meet November 16 and continue for two weeks. "Those who attend this congress in Peru may be assured of a most cordial welcome by the Peruvian people," Mr. Higginson said today. "They will be received with all the hospitality and friendliness that is traditional of the people of Latin America."

GREAT INTEREST

The second Pan-American Scientific Congress was held in Washington in the winter of 1915-1916 and widespread interest was manifested in the proceedings. The forthcoming gathering is regarded by scientific men as an exceptional opportunity for the advancement of scientific ideas and discoveries for the benefit of the peoples of North and South America.

- The November conference is to be divided into nine sessions, as follows:
1. Anthropological and historical sciences.
 2. Physical and mathematical sciences.
 3. Mining, metallurgy, economic geology and applied chemistry.

DETECTIVE KILLED MAN IN WINNIPEG

Motor Squad Was Attempting to Arrest Him on Store Theft Charge

He Had Fired One Shot; Killing Was Accidental

Winnipeg, July 14.—Jim Kuzmac, an ex-convict and gun toter, was shot and killed by Detective Alexander of the Winnipeg city force Saturday night. The killing ended a week's search for Kuzmac, who was being sought for breaking into a local drugstore on July 6. Early Saturday evening the wanted man was accosted by Detective Inspector Colman in a downtown street. He resisted arrest and put up a struggle. The detective fired a shot, the bullet narrowly missing the detective's head. A detective motor squad from police headquarters started on the trail, which ended at the old exhibition grounds, several miles from the scene of the earlier encounter.

Kuzmac sighted the police officers first and started to run. Detective Alexander drew his gun, aiming low, but just as he fired the car struck a bump and the detective's arm up and his bullet went high, lodging in Kuzmac's heart. A revolver and a quantity of ammunition was found in the fugitive's pocket.

Mike Kuzmac, a brother of the man killed, is held in connection with the shooting. He is charged with the robbery of a restaurant keeper who was severely beaten.

BEDTIME STORY

Uncle Wiggily Makes a Fire

Copyright, 1924, by McClure News-paper Syndicate.
By Howard M. Garis

One day Uncle Wiggily felt very hungry for cherry pie.

"If you will get me some cherries, and build me a fire in the kitchen stove, I will make you a cherry pie," promised Nurse Jane, the muskrat lady housekeeper.

The rabbit gentleman hopped over the fields and through the woods until he reached a cherry tree.

"But how am I going to get the cherries down? I need the bunny. I never thought of that."

Uncle Wiggily could not climb a tree. If there had been a step ladder he might have mounted on that, but there was none.

"How am I to get any cherries?" he asked, speaking out loud.

"I'll get some for you, Uncle Wiggily," sang out a cheerful voice. At first the police officer thought it was the Wolf or Fox, but, looking a second time, Mr. Longears saw a red-breasted robin.

"You were once kind to me and helped me build my nest," sang the robin. "So now I will be kind to you."

Which the bird was, filling the rabbit gentleman's tall silk hat with lovely cherries.

Here are the cherries, Nurse Jane," cried Uncle Wiggily as he hopped into his bungalow. "Don't forget your promise!"

"I'll make you the pie as soon as

"Now for the pie!" cried Uncle Wiggily.

you build me the fire in the kitchen stove," said the muskrat lady. "While you make the fire I'll sit in the parlor."

The bunny put paper and light sticks in the stove. A match set fire to the light sticks. Then Uncle Wiggily put on some larger sticks.

"And when the larger sticks are blazing I will put on the coal," said the bunny. "Soon the oven will be hot and then the pie will bake."

Uncle Wiggily had put in some of the larger sticks of wood, and he was waiting for them to burn up a little before he put on the coal, when he heard a noise at the back door.

"Perhaps that is Lulu, Alice and Jimmie Wiggibobble, the duck children, coming to get some cherry pie," thought the rabbit gentleman to himself. "Well, they'll have to wait a bit."

He looked out of the window and saw a cloud of smoke coming from the chimney of his bungalow. But he did not see the duck children. Then Uncle Wiggily looked out of the kitchen; there, in the middle of the room, stood the Fuzzy Fox.

"What do you want?" asked the bunny.

"I want to nibble your ears!" barked the Fox. "Hold still while I nibble them!"

He leaped toward Uncle Wiggily, but the bunny gave a jump and hopped out of the kitchen. He closed the door after him and locked it, fastening the Fox in. Out of doors ran Uncle Wiggily. He got the step ladder and climbed to the roof of the bungalow. He put his coat over the chimney so no smoke could get out.

The Fox was still in the kitchen trying to open the locked door to chase after Uncle Wiggily. And, soon the kitchen began to fill with smoke. For, not being able to get out of the chimney hole, as the rabbit had his coat over it, the smoke came out in the room.

"Choo! Choo!" cried the Fox. "Ker-choo! Ker-choo!" He sneezed from the choking smoke. He coughed and tears came into his smarting eyes as he ran about.

"Uncle Wiggily's house must be on

HOLDS PROCESS WAS WRONG IN CRIME DETECTION

Mr. Justice McPhillips, in Dismissing Judgment, Scores Police Methods

A stern indictment of the use of police officers in plain clothes to bring about a "travesty of justice" is included in the judgment of Mr. Justice McPhillips of the B.C. Court of Appeal in the hearing of Rex vs. Berdino. The accused Berdino was arrested and charged with illegal sale of liquor which he secured for police officers in plain clothes. The accused was convicted and appealed by way of case stated to the Court of Appeal.

The majority judgment of the court dismisses the appeal. Mr. Justice McPhillips gives a dissenting judgment, in the following terms:

"In my opinion this appeal must succeed with great respect to the learned judge from whose decision the appeal is taken—the necessary and compelling answer to the question put in the stated case is an answer in the negative."

"The case is in exceedingly small compass, and easy of understanding. The facts are undisputed, the accused is asked by the police officer (Ramsay), who is in plain clothes, to get him a bottle of whisky, the intention being upon the part of the police officer to purchase the bottle of whisky."

"That the accused in first instance paid for the purchase price of the bottle of whisky, and that he obtained it from the lady from whom he got the bottle of whisky, but for whom he did not act in obtaining the bottle of whisky."

"The police officer, not for himself, the accused did not want the whisky, did so, and at once made delivery of it to the police officer, the exact sum he had paid to the lady from whom he had obtained it, and the knowledge and within the sight of the police officer."

"The transaction was a sale by the accused to the police officer, with great respect to any question of the contract, the accused acted only upon the express request of the police officer to get him a bottle of whisky, the lady being the selling cause and the buyer in the transaction, the lady being the selling cause and the buyer in the transaction, the lady being the selling cause and the buyer in the transaction."

is cited as a sale of liquor in contravention of the law and the accused so worked upon must languish in jail associated with criminals for the period of six months, with the very probable result, or risk at least, of driving the accused to a life of crime. In such methods be approved? I think not. I, at least, will not refrain from expressing my disapproval.

AN ACT OF KINDNESS

"I can well believe that the accused in this case was overwhelmed with surprise to be dragged into the magistrate's court in this manner; he surely thought at least the people who suggested and requested him to do an act of seeming kindness to them would not be his accusers, but would stand with him in the present case that resembles the thought expressed in the following:

"When mercy seasons justice,"

"Here we have police officers inducing the accused to do that which would in their opinion bring about the contravention of statute law and impose against the accused a punishment of six months in jail without the option of a fine or any possible reduction or mitigation of punishment. That which was done here, in my opinion, was not an infraction of the Act, but if it could be said to in any manner partake of an infraction there would be the technical offence and punishment would follow, the magistrate or judge powerless to mitigate the iron heel of the law. This consideration gives one need for grave thought and careful introspection, and calls for the opinion of the well-known principle set forth at p. 456 of Broom's Legal Maxims, 8th ed.

"The principle," remarked Lord Abinger, "adopted by Lord Tenterden (Proctor v. Mainwaring, 3 B. & Ald. 145) that a penal law ought to be construed strictly, is not only a sound one, but the only one consistent with our free institutions. The interpretation of statutes has always in modern times been highly favorable to the personal liberty of the subject, and I hope will always remain so.

"I have no hesitation in coming to the conclusion that the foregoing reasons, that the appeal should be allowed, the conviction quashed and set aside."

Easily Digested Nourishment

WARM summer days call for foods which are easily assimilated by your body—their goodness extracted with the least amount of effort.

Grape-Nuts is just such a food. Its vast store of phosphorous and iron, of the precious food elements of wheat and malted barley is concentrated by a long process of slow baking in a highly energizing form—easily assimilated by the body.

Grape-Nuts is the food you need right now. You need the nourishment of the whole wheat and malted barley from which it is made. You need the generous amount of bran roughage it contains.

Grape-Nuts is most appetizing, too. Its crisp, crunchy granules have a flavor all their own. And it is very economical to serve. Four teaspoonfuls are sufficient for a helping. Costs 1c per serving. Get a package for tomorrow from your grocer.

A PAINFUL TRAGEDY

TO the Senior Naval Officer, his colleagues, and all ratings at Esquimalt, as well as to the people of this community in general, the news of the loss in nearby waters of Lieut. Ronald C. and Mrs. Watson and three seamen boys of the Royal Canadian Navy has come as an extremely painful shock.

As was his custom on Saturday afternoons the late Lieut. Watson had taken three of the boys who are undergoing training at Esquimalt for instructional exercises in sailing, a department in the seaman's curriculum in which he had established a record for capacity and efficiency. It appears that they left the dockyard waters soon after three o'clock, with the intention of returning between six and seven and it is believed that all went well on the outward journey. It is, however, presumed that the boat became entangled in kelp on her way home and capsized. There is tragic irony in the fact, moreover, that such a painful fatality should have occurred at so short a distance from the public highway. For the condition of the boat when washed ashore conveys the impression to the nautical mind that a gallant struggle had gone on for a period of doubt sufficiently long to attract attention if there had been eyes to see.

In any case one may rest assured that in that space of time which the elements allotted for the unequal battle the best traditions of the Navy were maintained. The Times adds its sincere condolences to those expressions of sympathy which will go out to the sorrowing relatives.

THE HABEAS CORPUS ISSUE

EFFECTIVE administration of justice in British Columbia requires the Attorney-General to take such steps as may be necessary to dispose of the issue which has arisen between the majority of the provincial Court of Appeal and the Chief Justice of the provincial Supreme Court on the right of a prisoner to apply to a court in habeas corpus proceedings for redress against what he claims to be wrongful imprisonment.

There are five Supreme Court judges in British Columbia. If a prisoner makes an application in habeas corpus proceedings for review of his case in law, the object of which, of course, is to restore his liberty, before one of those judges and it is refused, can he apply to any of the others? The majority of the Court of Appeal have ruled that he can not go farther than one judge of those five, but of course the Chief Justice of the Supreme Court holds that the prisoner may apply to each of the five Supreme Court judges in turn, if he so desires, that the Court of Appeal has no right to intervene, and that the Supreme Court therefore is not bound by its judgment on this subject.

It is for high legal authority to settle the point of law at issue. But whatever may be the outcome the public wants no enlargement of opportunity for criminals to escape the penalties prescribed for their crimes. That opportunity is too spacious as it is. There have been cases in which notorious crooks justly sentenced to imprisonment in the trial courts have gained their liberty by applying to one judge after another until they found one who, conscientiously enough, no doubt, differed from the others.

It is the multiplication of opportunity in varying forms for convicted persons to gain their liberty which is responsible for the fact that in many of the large cities in the United States there actually are numerous convicted murderers and highwaymen walking the streets. When a man charged with crime has had a fair trial and is duly sentenced, an application to one Supreme Court judge with the right to go beyond that tribunal to the Court of Appeal ought to be the limit of his opportunity to have the legality of his punishment reviewed. This is the law as the majority of the Court of Appeal see it. If it is not it ought to be and our lawmakers should see that it is.

Undoubtedly the widest opportunity for redress against wrongful imprisonment was needed in the days of the Stuarts and for many years in England afterwards when people were thrown into prison for the most trivial reasons and when judicial corruption was rampant, but happily we are not living under those conditions to-day. What we should guard against is any tendency in the law or its judicial interpretation which might unlock the prison doors and turn loose upon society criminals properly convicted in the courts. This is something for the Attorney-General to look into.

BUSINESS WORLD PARLIAMENT

ONE of the most important businessmen's conventions ever to be held has commenced its labors in London to-day. It is the gathering of the Association of Advertising Clubs of the World and among its delegates are to be found representatives from practically every country. The United States has sent a particularly influential body of men and Canada has done proportionately well.

One unique feature of the convention is the fact that this is the first time that its annual business has been conducted outside of the American continent and only the second time outside of the United States. The chief factor determining the place of meeting this year, of course, was the British Empire Exhibition at Wembley, where most of the business sessions of the Association will take place.

When Viscount Burnham describes the gathering as "a business parliament of the world" he by no means overdoes the importance of the event. On this occasion, moreover, it is particularly fortunate that John Bull should be able to show the world's advertising experts what he can place in his shop window when he tackles the job. And while thousands of the delegates are continually talking to and educating the public along faithful commercial lines through the printed word, this close view of British products—for at Wembley is the Empire and its manufactures in miniature—should prove a valuable education to many who are in Britain's metropolis for the first time.

Nor need there be any underestimate of the value of this gathering as an agent for better relations between the nations of the world. Interchange of commercial ideas—and what calls for a higher code of ethics than advertising?—such as is possible at conventions of this kind must make for business-honesty among nations.

COMING WEST

THOSE who doubt the development of Western grain traffic and the ultimate expansion of the activities of all the harbors of British Columbia should take courage from the fact that for the ten months ended June 30, 1924, the wheat going out from Vancouver amounted to 50,691,096 bushels as compared with an export for the same period at Montreal of 47,262,196 bushels.

There is one significant point in these official statistics. It is the first time on record that the exports of Canadian wheat by way of British Columbia ports have exceeded those of the port of Montreal. That fact is all the more significant when it is considered that the western movement is only about three years old.

There is no suggestion that Western ports will attempt or are attempting to outdo Montreal in this connection. With the adjustment of freight rates, however, and with increased facilities in anticipation of the 1924 crop, there is no doubt at all that the statistics of twelve months hence will reveal an even more encouraging condition. And as time goes on, as the crop—and particularly the western crop—approaches the 1,000,000,000 bushel mark, all British Columbia's ports will be kept busy.

Meantime it is highly satisfactory that the western accomplishment, with facilities not altogether perfect, and in the face of discriminating freight rates, should have reached such substantial proportions in so short a space of time.

To-day is an anxious day among the politicians of British Columbia. Never have absenteeism been made such a fuss of.

There is a great gathering of nations in London to-day. Seven thousand advertising men from all over the world are in convention.

Conservative hopes in the Prince George constituency received a rude shock after the absentee votes had been counted on Saturday. Mr. Perry went in with a good lead.

London women have been terrorized by a man going about splashing their dresses with ink. Is this some author or poet determined to spill ink or die?

Where the French Senate stands in relation to the recent conversations between the British Premier and Premier Herriot is revealed in its vote of confidence to the latter—246 to 18.

MAKES FOR ONENESS

From The Ottawa Citizen

The value of the British warships' cruise is bound to be considerable, for there are many directions in which it should be productive of good results. One of these is in impressing upon the people in the far-flung countries that, although they live in far and remote places, there is a oneness and a common citizenship for all in the great commonwealth of nations called the British Empire.

MONTREAL'S OBJECTION

From The Winnipeg Tribune

The bulky report of the Shipping Federation of Canada, whose headquarters are in Montreal, is strongly suggestive throughout that Montreal has its own special ground of objection to the St. Lawrence deep waterway project. Montreal prefers to remain at the head of navigation, and dislikes the prospect of becoming a way port for ocean-going traffic, even though the traffic passing through it should be enormously increased.

COMPANY

From Vanity Fair

There was a man lived up this lane
Whom no one ever went to see.
He never walked but in a rain,
And then indifferently.

A dog was always chained ahead,
And trotted slow, as if to find
The road for him and people said
Therefore he was blind.

But there were some who said he saw
The animal was only kept
For comfort, and to lay a paw Beside him when he—

Dr. Frank Crane on "Give and Take"

(Copyright)

IT is well to remember that life is pretty much a matter of Give and Take.

As the stenographer observes: "You're not the only pebble on the beach," or as the festive Al Johnson puts it: "You can't play every instrument in the orchestra."

If we go all down along the line of human relationships and apply this bit of sense, we will find:

"It was free money a blunder free us."

Come, Newlyweds, give and take, abate your egocentric mania, remember it takes two happy people to make a happy pair, adapt yourselves, come down a bit, and you'll save yourselves many a pouting spell and sour moment, many an incipient tragedy and budding despair, many a heart twinge and drop of bitterness.

When you're shopping, give and take. Don't forget the clerk is a human being and may have her own particular worm of annoyance eating at her heart.

When you're handling workmen, give and take. They have their problems and prejudices, their wills and obsessions, even as you and your board of directors.

When you're dealing with the boss, give and take. He has his troubles. The wage earner is not the only one who is worried about getting on; the man who pays the wages has to watch his step also, and when he falls he breaks, not only his own leg but yours.

When you have an argument with the street car conductor, or deal with the cook, or have to do with the grocer and the milkman, or are put out by an unsatisfactory waiter, or have a session with your lawyer, doctor, tailor or real estate agent, give and take.

Nobody gets happiness from having things all his own way. Happiness is not that kind of product.

Happiness is a mutual affair. It usually takes at least two. It is a co-operative enterprise.

And the beauty of it is that it is the paradox of the world. For divided by two it is larger than when it is yours alone.

If you want to get the most out of this imperfect world as you go along,
Give and Take!

The Great Governor of New France

LOUIS DE BUADÉ, Comte de Frontenac,

greatest of the Governors of New France, after Champlain, from the moment of his landing showed a remarkable aptitude for the management of the savage nations. Instinctively he understood their nature, and by his understanding and his natural dominance gained an immediate ascendancy. There were other things about his position which he understood as well. One was the advantage he might derive for himself from the fur trade at the same time as he served his Sovereign. The second was the freedom of initiative he might assume by reason of his distance from that Sovereign and the length of time it took for letters of the King's ministers to reach him. After the last boat sailed from Quebec in the Autumn he had before him an untrammelled stretch of eight or nine months before dispatches could reach him for what he had done the year before. So his habitual course was to do swiftly what he wanted to do, regardless of royal instructions, and to explain his actions by the last dispatches of the year. By the following summer the situation would be changed or, from results he could give additional arguments for his course and gain another year of delay.

In the first year of his administration he decided that there should be a government outpost on Lake Ontario where it narrows into the St. Lawrence River. This was no new idea. It had been recommended by a predecessor, but had been dropped by the Court of France, which insisted upon concentration for purposes of defence. Frontenac saw that a fort here, on the edge of the Iroquois home domain and the heart of their hunting country would, for the present at least, overawe these human wolves, the scourge of nearly two generations past of the French settlements, and perhaps force them to leave the western trading Indians, who came down the Ottawa, unmolested and free to come to Montreal, and it might become a trading centre upon which he might levy his personal percentage. Home instructions notwithstanding he went ahead.

Sending in advance the Sieur de la Salle to invite the Iroquois to a conference at the mouth of the Cataract River where Kingston, Ontario, lies to-day, he proceeded to Montreal. There he assembled four hundred troops, regulars, militia and Indians. Starting on June 3 from Lacine above the Rapids with 120 canoes and two barges, all brilliantly painted in red and blue for dazzling effect, he forced his way up the river, up the rapids, past the "St. Lawrence Islands"—the most beautiful piece of country that can be imagined," he wrote home.

It was on the sunlit morning of July 13 that the flotilla approached Cataract, a designedly impressive military pageant, four squadrons of canoes in front, then the flashing barges, then the Governor himself with his staff in the centre canoes, flanked by those of militia and Indians, with rearward and supply boats following. The crowding Iroquois were fascinated and humbled by the display. The brilliant uniforms, the ceremony, the numbers that had come thus far with such ease, the striking, colorful figure of the haughty masterful Governor—all dramatically combined to induce a proper frame of mind in these wild forest people to what was to follow.

That day the tents were swiftly pitched, including great awnings to cover the council members, whose matting-seat was to be the sailcloth of the barges. Meanwhile no detail of military routine was lost upon the keen-eyed savages. Next morning early the council was convened. Frontenac, gorgeous in his most resplendent uniform, received in state, welcomed the chiefs, and gave them tobacco. That was enough for one day. It was not until July 17 that real business was discussed. Meanwhile, begun immediately upon disembarkation, Fort Frontenac was being built at a speed incredible to the Iroquois. Frontenac informed them of his intention of a fort and trading post, gave many presents as he finished with each announcement, and warned them, "If your Father can come so far, with so great a force, through such dangerous rapids, merely to make you a visit of pleasure and friendship, what would he do if you should awaken his anger, and make it necessary for him to punish his disobedient children?"

More than the bright display of force, it was Frontenac's personality which dominated these shrewd appraisers of manhood. Here was a man they instinctively obeyed and felt honored when he spoke. He called them "children," either French or English had ever called them so before. Thus was inaugurated the ten years of relief from Iroquois aggression, which relief gave opportunity for the greatest expansion of New France.

PREDICTS A PERIOD OF GREAT GROWTH

Sir John Willison, Visiting Antipodes, Talks of Australia and Canada

Special to The Times
Sydney, Australia, July 14.—"As sure as the sun shines on your Australian plains you will some day have an Australian United States with a power commensurate with that of the American United States and a population less diluted with alien element."

Sir John Willison, the well-known Canadian journalist, in the role of prophet kept a huge audience at the Millions Club here interested when he told them of Canada and then of what Australia might become. He has been touring the Commonwealth, meeting all the prominent men and forming his own conclusions.

GROWTH OF POWER

"I am confident," he declared, "that the great development of the next half-century will be the growth in population and economic power of both Canada and Australia. There are citizens of the United States still living who have seen their country grow from 25,000,000 to 115,000,000. The United States possesses no advantage that this country does not possess, and as it is now practically closed to immigrants they must go elsewhere. That means nothing less than that they will come here or go to Canada."

Disclaiming any idea of "giving advice" to Australia, Sir John went on to tell them that migration in the future must be less haphazard, and that migrants must get more assistance in new countries than they used to get. Then he turned to trade arrangements and warmly advocated a reciprocity agreement between Canada and the Commonwealth.

A NATURAL RELATION

"There are no two countries in the world," he declared, "between which reciprocity in trade is more natural. We produce what you do not and the things that you grow are the things that we want and have not got."

Sir John is now on his way to England on a round-the-world tour. His public speeches in Australia have done a great deal towards arousing Australian interest in Canadian affairs and possibilities.

LATE at night, do your eyes distress you? Our scientific examination will tell you whether you should have glasses or not. Perfect fittings at the right price.

CIVIL SERVANTS HAD JOLLY PICNIC

Sports and Dancing Enjoyed at Sooke on Saturday

It took the entire seating accommodation of some twenty private cars and fully half a dozen to transport the large number of Provincial civil servants and their friends to Sooke River flats on Saturday, on the occasion of their annual picnic to that most beautiful of all picnicking grounds. Leaving at 10:30 a.m., the large majority of the picnicers arrived on the river flats at noon, where lunch by the river side in the shade of fir was partaken of almost immediately. There followed races for the kiddies in the party and mixed baseball, football and water polo for the grown-ups. Many took advantage of the new board tennis courts at the hotel, while others wandered up the picturesque roads and trails skirting the river and harbor.

After tea a large number repaired to "Paradise Inn," where considerably over 120 dancers, exclusive of a large number of guests staying at the inn, were comfortably catered for on its spacious hardwood dancing floor, the music being supplied by five members of the civil service orchestra, an aggregation of musicians drawn from the Parliament Buildings.

The dancers returned to town at 10 o'clock, after having shown their appreciation of Mr. Wallie's hospitality through the medium of three rousing cheers.

Little Son of Mr. H. J. S. Muskett Met Serious Accident

A serious accident befell little George Muskett, son of Mr. and Mrs. H. J. S. Muskett, a few days ago, as the result of which he is a patient in the Provincial Royal Jubilee Hospital. The little fellow was playing in the garden at the home of a friend and had climbed into a tree. Losing his balance for a moment, he fell with considerable force on to a picket fence, the spikes of which pierced his body, inflicting serious and painful injuries. Dr. Boak was summoned and the little chap was rushed to the hospital, where an operation was performed. Inquiries at the hospital this morning elicited the information that he passed a fairly easy night.

PRETTY HOUSE WEDDING SATURDAY

Nuptials of Sergt. W. F. Pauline of Work Point and Miss Muriel King

A pretty wedding took place on Saturday evening at the residence of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. William King, 3194 Douglas Street, in the presence of relatives and intimate friends, when Major Rev. Dr. Campbell officiated at a ceremony which made Miss Muriel Florence King the bride of Sergt. W. F. Pauline, of the Work Point. The bride, who was charming in a French gown of powder-blue georgette, beautifully brocaded and trimmed with steel and black beads, wore a coronet of silver leaves, and carried a bouquet of Ophelia roses, native sweet peas and maidenhair ferns. She came into the drawing-room on the arm of her father, who gave her in marriage. She was attended as bridesmaid by Miss Myrtle Mabel King, her sister, who was very handsome in a frock of pink georgette trimmed with white beads and carried a bouquet of pink sweet peas and lilies of the valley with maidenhair ferns. The bridegroom was accompanied as groomsmen by Mr. William Stuart Hodgson, the groom's brother, and Mr. Monty Stubbins, a friend of the groom. The ceremony was performed under an arch of sweet peas. While the register was being signed Miss Jenny Stubbins sang, "Because."

Mr. and Mrs. Pauline left by the midnight boat for Vancouver and the Sound cities, and on their return will make their home in Victoria, of which city they are both natives. Among the guests were Mr. and Mrs. George Porter and family, Mr. and Mrs. Gold, Miss Stella Gold, Mr. and Mrs. H. Pauline, Mr. and Mrs. Murray, Miss Muriel Murray, Mr. and Mrs. Stubbins and family, Mr. and Mrs. Humber and family, Mr. D. Hodgkin and Mrs. Ware.

WOMAN'S VIEW OF BASUTOLAND

Visitor Here Describes Little Known Mountainous Country

It is rather a remarkable thing that the best books about the Basutos are by women, for that remarkable mountainous and very wealthy country is very little known to the outside world. The "Switzerland of South Africa" is forbidden to white settlement, and is still under the direct control of the imperial authorities, although ringed round with territory of the Union.

In Victoria is now staying at 418 Menzies Street a lady who has had an excellent opportunity to know the home life of these strange people, Mrs. Van Riet, a member of one of the well-known Cape families, who gained first-hand knowledge as a nursing sister when the Government sent in doctors and nurses in 1918 to check the spread of plague.

WANTED A DRINK

Since the transfer from the Cape Government to the imperial authorities, about forty years ago, the Basutos have found it more difficult to obtain strong liquors, and Mrs. Van Riet says that when the first question the chiefdom asked the party on their arrival, to suggest to her that she should have the serum injection, was for a bottle of whisky. When the chiefdom had obtained that, and has satisfied her curiosity by taste that it was the genuine article, she immediately became gracious and hospitable, and in return invited them to partake of a native beer and chicken cooked in clay, baked directly in the ashes. The same course was taken with the vegetables, but at any rate they made an appetizing meal.

The medical party had many strange experiences in the country, which Mrs. Van Riet says is remarkably fertile, with wonderful valleys growing the most remarkable wheat and mealies in South Africa. All Basutos are agriculturalists, and of fine physique.

The disposition of the area has enabled them to live unopposed by the white neighbor's influence, in contrast to the way that the Griquas and the Zulus have, although many of the Basutos go to the towns of South Africa to work and there learn the white men's habits.

The most wonderful feature of the native customs is the almost religious influence which dancing has on the people. They devote hours to practice, and when a marriage is celebrated both the bride and the groom dance individually for the edification of the guests.

The natives have discouraged mining operations, but it is known that diamonds abound in the lowlands, and when the country comes to be opened up she says the wonderful Kimberley field will be overvalued. It is to prevent this looting of the natives that the regulations for admission to the Basutoland are so stringent.

Mrs. Van Riet is on her way to California to see her son. She is greatly interested in the recent general election in the Union, knowing many of the candidates personally, and a strong supporter of the Smuts party. She has some interesting stories to tell of the notable figures in South African politics during the last quarter of a century, some of whom, like Sir Percy Fitzpatrick and Leopold Albu, have recently visited this city.

POPULAR NANAIMO GIRL WED HERE

Miss Dorothy Bate Becomes Bride of Wm. T. Money of Victoria

Of interest to many Victorians, as well as to the residents of Nanaimo, was the wedding at noon to-day at St. Mary's Church, when Rev. Mr. Cockshutt solemnized the marriage of Zelmia Dorothy, youngest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Mark Bate, Jr., of Nanaimo, and granddaughter of Mr. Mark Bate, the well-known pioneer, to Mr. William Taylor Money, son of the late Mr. W. E. Money, of Victoria, and of Mrs. A. F. Beasley, of Beach Drive, Victoria. Given in marriage by her father, Mr. Mark Bate, the bride, as the bride party proceeded to the aisle of the church, was a picture of charming youth in her wedding gown of white, cut panne velvet on georgette, simply fashioned and having a cabochon of pearls with long tassels of pearls. A handsome Brussels net veil with rose point lace applique was attached to the coiffure with orange blossoms, and a shower bouquet of sweetheart roses and dainty marguerites completed the bridal attire.

As matron of honor, Mrs. A. M. Gillespie of Seattle looked very smart in a gown of orchid georgette, with which was worn a hat of silver lace.

The maid of honor, a sister of the groom, Miss Grace Money, and the bridesmaid, Miss Margaret Martindale of Nanaimo, were dressed alike in frocks of cream lace, with long petal-like panels of pink georgette, large picture hats of lace and georgette and shower bouquets of pale pink and mauve sweetpeas completed their charming costumes.

The groom was supported by Captain Charles Money of Victoria, while Mr. Cyril Bate and Mr. Murray Martindale, both of Nanaimo, acted as ushers.

During the signing of the registers, Miss Grace Money sang the marriage hymn "O Father, All Creating."

Following the ceremony a reception was held at the home of the bride's brother-in-law and sister, Col. and Mrs. H. T. Winsby, St. Louis Street, Oak Bay, which for the occasion was artistically decorated with flowers in a color scheme of pink and white. In the dining-room, where a buffet luncheon was served, the large wedding cake centred the table, which was also adorned with pink and white flowers.

Mr. and Mrs. Money left on the afternoon boat for Seattle, where they will motor to Southern California to spend the honeymoon, and on their return will make their home in Vancouver.

The bride traveled in a Swiss sports suit of grey with touches of lavender and gold and wore a smart lavender hat and grey fox fur.

The bride's mother, Mrs. Mark Bate, who acted in receiving the guests with Mrs. Winsby, was dressed in navy blue Canton crepe, with which was worn a handsome grey lace scarf and smart hat to match. Mrs. H. T. Winsby wore a blue beaded gown of crepe de Chine and wore a white hat, while the groom's mother, Mrs. Beasley, was attired in a gown of green georgette and a black lace hat.

Among the out of town guests present were Mrs. Hawthornthwaite and the Misses Hawthornthwaite of Nanaimo, Mrs. A. M. Gillespie of Seattle, Mrs. Martindale of Nanaimo, Miss Haddon of Nanaimo, Mrs. Philip Snapp of Sooke, and Miss Ruth Mahler of Vancouver.

The Esquimalt company gave a very smart display of signalling and of physical drill. Two charming folk-dances "Peas-cods" and "God-desses" were given by the Lady Douglas Company and Sellinger's Round by the Gonzales Company, who also took part in an Indian woodcraft game which greatly interested the spectators.

The Brownies, most engaging little folk in their natty uniforms, contributed their share to the programme, all joining in a grand salute in honor of the commissioner. The Esquimalt Brownies, made their first appearance in public, and won popular favor by their interpretation of an action song "Playing at Ball."

The First Victoria and Foul Bay Packs added quite appreciably to the fund by their energetic efforts in selling ice cream, and the Esquimalt Pack did their bit by the sale of candies and posies. All the Guide companies had stalls, showing a variety of pretty articles, mostly of their own making, and owing to the generous response of the visitors all had the satisfaction of clearing out their wares.

Mrs. Muskett kindly convened the games and competitions staged by the Guides, of which there was a wide choice, each well patronized.

Mrs. Maraquita Nichol and Mrs. Brown, the fortune-teller, each had a waiting list the entire afternoon.

Very popular among the youngsters were the rides on the pony owned by Miss Wanda Spencer.

Tea was served during the afternoon on the lawn to over 400 guests. Mrs. Alexander convened this important item, assisted by Mrs. Sherwood, Mrs. Barclay, Miss Lottie Brown, with the Guides as waitresses. The cakes were all provided by the Guides with the help of a generous contribution from Mrs. Nichol.

The cake in the guessing competition was won by Miss Peggy Brown.

The big all fresco play, "The Curse of Chirra-Poonie," will be staged on Friday and Saturday of this week in the garden of Gonzales, the charming old Pemberton home, at the corner of Rockland Avenue and St. Charles Street, which has lately been taken over for the use of Sefton College.

Miss Roberts, the principal, has graciously placed these ideal grounds at the disposal of the committee, who have been in charge of the direction of Major Bullock-Webster. This is a distinctly community undertaking. Any and all who wish to do so, have been invited to take part. Shakespearean students from the High School, students from the B.C. Dramatic School, Girl Guides, Boy Scouts, and the Victoria Brigade, many individuals interested in the artistic and social life of Victoria will be represented in the large cast.

The production is designed chiefly for the purpose of establishing an annual out-of-door play, which will be an additional attraction and an inducement to outsiders to visit Victoria during the height of her Summer loveliness, as well as to arouse a community spirit of pride and appreciation of local talent and the untalented setting-Victoria offers for its display. The affair is under the distinguished patronage of His Honor the Lieut.-Governor and Mrs. Nichol, Right Rev. the Bishop of Columbia and Mrs. Schofield, His Worship the Mayor, Brigadier-General Ross and Commander Beard, the Chamber of Commerce, Knights of Columbus, I.O.E., Women's Canadian Club, Rotary Club, Kumtuke, Kiwanis, One Hundred Per Cent Club, and the Public Bureau, which has subsidized the attraction extensively in Vancouver and the Sound cities.

The music so indispensable in an outdoor production, is being furnished entirely in the hands of Mrs. A. J. Gibson and Mr. Drury Pryce.

Mrs. Harry Briggs will appear in the second scene, singing a particularly fine solo with the entire cast as her background.

Miss Eva Hart, as a shepherdess, will sing of the joys of a pastoral life, while real sheep from Capt. Van der Byl's ranch will complete the artistic setting.

In the fifth act, Mrs. Matheson as Alfie, the brigand chief, has a brief but effective solo with a swinging refrain by his followers.

Mr. Arthur Shears as Narayana, singer, at the suggestion of Coondra, the jealous one, a song to lure from Prince Hassan the affections of Princess Sumaira. Miss Maraquita (Nichol), who, in the last act, sings the song of the Princess.

Beautiful weather, a lovely setting and a remarkably good attendance of visitors all combined to make an outstanding success of the Girl Guide garden party held on Saturday afternoon in the grounds of Government House.

The proceedings opened at 2 o'clock, when Mrs. Nichol, provincial commissioner, supported by Miss Mara, deputy provincial commissioner, Mrs. Kintoch, district commissioner, and Mrs. Tyrell Goodman, commissioner for Vancouver Island, took the salute from three companies of Girl Guides.

he march past and formation of the ceremonial horsehoe was a very neat and well executed performance, reflecting great credit on the officer in command, Miss Leighton, district captain.

The Esquimalt company gave a very smart display of signalling and of physical drill. Two charming folk-dances "Peas-cods" and "God-desses" were given by the Lady Douglas Company and Sellinger's Round by the Gonzales Company, who also took part in an Indian woodcraft game which greatly interested the spectators.

The Brownies, most engaging little folk in their natty uniforms, contributed their share to the programme, all joining in a grand salute in honor of the commissioner. The Esquimalt Brownies, made their first appearance in public, and won popular favor by their interpretation of an action song "Playing at Ball."

Dr. Scholl's Zino-pads
"Put one on—the pain is gone"

o'clock, when Mrs. Nichol, provincial commissioner, supported by Miss Mara, deputy provincial commissioner, Mrs. Kintoch, district commissioner, and Mrs. Tyrell Goodman, commissioner for Vancouver Island, took the salute from three companies of Girl Guides.

he march past and formation of the ceremonial horsehoe was a very neat and well executed performance, reflecting great credit on the officer in command, Miss Leighton, district captain.

The Esquimalt company gave a very smart display of signalling and of physical drill. Two charming folk-dances "Peas-cods" and "God-desses" were given by the Lady Douglas Company and Sellinger's Round by the Gonzales Company, who also took part in an Indian woodcraft game which greatly interested the spectators.

The Brownies, most engaging little folk in their natty uniforms, contributed their share to the programme, all joining in a grand salute in honor of the commissioner. The Esquimalt Brownies, made their first appearance in public, and won popular favor by their interpretation of an action song "Playing at Ball."

The First Victoria and Foul Bay Packs added quite appreciably to the fund by their energetic efforts in selling ice cream, and the Esquimalt Pack did their bit by the sale of candies and posies. All the Guide companies had stalls, showing a variety of pretty articles, mostly of their own making, and owing to the generous response of the visitors all had the satisfaction of clearing out their wares.

Mrs. Muskett kindly convened the games and competitions staged by the Guides, of which there was a wide choice, each well patronized.

Mrs. Maraquita Nichol and Mrs. Brown, the fortune-teller, each had a waiting list the entire afternoon.

Very popular among the youngsters were the rides on the pony owned by Miss Wanda Spencer.

Tea was served during the afternoon on the lawn to over 400 guests. Mrs. Alexander convened this important item, assisted by Mrs. Sherwood, Mrs. Barclay, Miss Lottie Brown, with the Guides as waitresses. The cakes were all provided by the Guides with the help of a generous contribution from Mrs. Nichol.

The cake in the guessing competition was won by Miss Peggy Brown.

The big all fresco play, "The Curse of Chirra-Poonie," will be staged on Friday and Saturday of this week in the garden of Gonzales, the charming old Pemberton home, at the corner of Rockland Avenue and St. Charles Street, which has lately been taken over for the use of Sefton College.

Miss Roberts, the principal, has graciously placed these ideal grounds at the disposal of the committee, who have been in charge of the direction of Major Bullock-Webster. This is a distinctly community undertaking. Any and all who wish to do so, have been invited to take part. Shakespearean students from the High School, students from the B.C. Dramatic School, Girl Guides, Boy Scouts, and the Victoria Brigade, many individuals interested in the artistic and social life of Victoria will be represented in the large cast.

The production is designed chiefly for the purpose of establishing an annual out-of-door play, which will be an additional attraction and an inducement to outsiders to visit Victoria during the height of her Summer loveliness, as well as to arouse a community spirit of pride and appreciation of local talent and the untalented setting-Victoria offers for its display. The affair is under the distinguished patronage of His Honor the Lieut.-Governor and Mrs. Nichol, Right Rev. the Bishop of Columbia and Mrs. Schofield, His Worship the Mayor, Brigadier-General Ross and Commander Beard, the Chamber of Commerce, Knights of Columbus, I.O.E., Women's Canadian Club, Rotary Club, Kumtuke, Kiwanis, One Hundred Per Cent Club, and the Public Bureau,

Love Stakes

By MILDRED BARBOUR

Natalie didn't answer. She was looking fixedly at Barry strolling ahead, tall and lithe and graceful, that dear, familiar figure which had somehow come to house the soul of a stranger.

For a moment she forgot to veil her eyes and Barry, turning suddenly around, caught their expression. He winced, as though he had been struck.

What he had been about to say died on his tongue and it was Jim who spoke:

"I've just invited us, Constance and me, to dine with you people, Natalie. Barry says your servants are having a jamboree to-night and you're turned out of your own house, so let's all go to the Eagle Inn."

"Splendid!" agreed Constance warmly. "And don't let's change. It's too hot to motor back to town and get into evening things."

So the foursome was continued throughout the evening, and, still clinging together, they were very numbers to overwhelm the sinister black forces that swirled around them, they motored back to town through the Summer moonlight.

Natalie felt a childish desire to postpone the inevitable moment when she and Barry would be left together. She shrank, too, from the terrible desolation of the night, the long black hours when, alone, she would be face to face with her failure.

But the moment came and with the last faint sound of Jim Deering's motor dying away in the distance, she and Barry looked at each other across the path of the lamplight in the library.

"Well?" Barry moved about restlessly, his hands thrust deep in his pockets. "Have you decided what you wish to do about me, Natalie?"

"I wish to do about me, Natalie?" she asked, looking at him with a steady gaze. "I wish to do about me, Natalie?"

Marathon, Olympic Classic, Won By Stenroos, Of Finland

Little Country Adds Another Great Honor to Its Record; Nurmi, Greatest Athlete of All Times, Wins 3,000 Metres, Setting New Record, Giving Finland Clean Sweep of Distance Events; United States Wins First Place in Aggregate of Points; Italian Walker Best

Colombes, July 14.—The United States left the Olympic battlefield yesterday triumphant in track and field for the eighth successive time since the modern revival of the Olympic games. But when the dusk brought a close to the greatest and most spectacular fight ever witnessed for international athletic honors, the United States shared the final glory with her gallant rival from the north, Finland.

The premier mantle of Olympic triumph went to the new Finnish hero, Albin Stenroos, who raced under a blazing sun to the classic Marathon championship, a victory which capped the climax to Finland's clean sweep of the distance races and gave the little Nordic country the greatest laurels it has ever won. Bertini of Italy was second and De Mar, United States, third. Stenroos' time was 2:42:23.5.

Halonen, Finland, came fourth and Piazzi, Italy, fifth. His time was three hours and four minutes.

Six Other Sports Now Hold Sway At Olympic Stadium

Rowing, Tennis, Fencing, Wrestling, Swimming and Rowing on

Paris, July 14.—Now that track and field battles are over, the interest in the Olympics which has been concentrated on a single sport for the past eight days, to-day found six branches of the competition in full swing.

Chief among the attractions to-day, from the Canadian viewpoint, are swimming contests in which several stars from the Dominions are entered, and the rowing competitions in which Canada also is represented by some of its leading oarsmen.

Yachting and fencing contests, tennis, "catch-as-catch-can" wrestling complete the activities in Paris and its environs.

The Olympic tennis championship play began yesterday with the opening programme confined to the men's singles.

Most nations had players on the Olympic courts than ever before had entered a tennis tournament anywhere. Few spectators gave much attention to their doings, however.

Thrills Lacking

Of thrills there were none, or at least very few on the tennis courts, as almost everyone of the better players had an easy time in beating back first round opposition, in consequence, the opening day's programme was reeled off almost in its entirety in straight sets. There were no upsets and only a few closely disputed matches.

The star French entrants, Jean Borotra and Rene Lacoste, found it easy to best their opponents. So did the Belgian champion, J. Washer. The British team, however, lost one of its quartette when Masanobu Fukuda, the Japanese Davis cup player, sent down J. D. P. Wheatley to defeat in straight sets. Vincent Richards, Watson Washburn and Francis T. Hunter, the United States players, won their matches.

The United States is certain of winning the featherweight Olympic wrestling championship both Robert Reed, United States, and Chester Newton, United States, qualified for the last round, and will meet each other for the title. The United States also has qualified in the classes, except the middleweight and bantamweight.

The United States crew won the first heat of the elimination trials in the four-oared shells, from Belgium and Spain in the Olympic regatta which opened on the Seine River yesterday.

England Beaten

Others qualifying were France, who defeated England and Poland, Italy which won from Hungary and Holland, and defeated Switzerland.

The United States, France, Italy and Holland will meet in the semi-finals Tuesday.

No mention is made of the Vancouver crew which was to have competed in the four-oared shells. They must have been eliminated early.

Les Tourelles, France, July 14.—The opening events of the Olympic pool yesterday. Conditions were favorable for good records.

Three members of the United States women's swimming team won the three qualifying heats of the 400-metres. In the first heat, Gertrude Ederle came first with Miss Molewirth, Britain, second. Time 6:1-5.

Helene Walnwright won the second heat with Mariette Protin, France, second. Time 6:46 3-5.

Martha Normale, United States, won the third heat with Miss Jones, Britain, second. Time 6:27 2-5.

Three trial heats of the men's 1,500-metres swimming were contested. Anthon, Britain, won the first heat, with Smith, United States, second. Time 22:10 2-5.

Ike Borg, Sweden, won the second heat with Taylor, Britain, second.

Charles, Australia, broke the record, covering the distance in 21 minutes 20 2-5 seconds, distancing Hatfield, Britain, and Richard Howell, United States.

Arne Borg in the fourth heat again lowered the record, making the distance in 21 minutes 11 2-5 seconds. Britain and the United States were eliminated from the water-polo contest by Hungary.

Paris, July 14.—W. Garrett-Gilmore of Philadelphia, the American sculling champion, to-day qualified for the final round of the Olympic competition by defeating Berezford of Great Britain in the third of three trial events of the Olympic single scull event. The final will be contested Thursday.

The other two heats were won by (Continued on page 16)

Don't Strain for Overspin

By H. B. MARTIN

Some golfers imagine that an overspin on a ball must be produced by hitting the ball on the upward sweep of the club, and many make the mistake by trying to assist the club to do this.

There should be no attempt to hit the ball in such a way as to impart this spin which usually provides a fine roller, running yards and yards after dropping to the earth.

The clubhead will take care of any spinning movement without unnecessary help. The face of the club is turned down just a trifle instead of laid back as some might think. The ball is hit in this way just about the centre, but there is no danger of a topped ball as the follow-through of the club carries the ball with it to a safe point before releasing it and sending it on its way down the course.

If the clubhead is turned back the forearms must turn it over at the moment of the impact but great care must be taken to insure the proper timing.

VICTOR VARCONI, FILMDOM'S NEWEST RECRUIT, IN LEADING ROLE OF "CHANGING HUSBANDS"

New Paramount Luminary in Big Film at Dominion Theatre This Week, Made His Screen Debut on This Continent in "Triumph"

After a succession of slim, svelte individuals to such a flood point as to make film fans think that only Gaelic acting could be expected from Europe, an entirely new type of Continental Theatrical has set to work the brain cells which stimulate contrast and comparison.

From Budapest, Hungary, in October, to Hollywood in January was the jump made by Victor Varconi, filmdom's newest recruit, whose debut was with Leatrice Joy and Rod La Rocque in Cecil B. DeMille's Paramount picture, "Triumph." His second is "Changing Husbands," directed by Frank Urson and Paul Iribe.

Varconi for several years has been a Hungarian idol, particularly in Shakespeare. He has appeared in European films, only two of which, "The Queen of Sin" and "The Red Peacock," ever appeared in America. This newest invader from across the Atlantic is entirely different from Rudolph Valentino, Ramon Navarro, Ricardo Cortez and Antonio Moreno, a quartet who for some time have held the fort unchallenged.

Where Valentino is slender, Varconi inclines to a strong, virile build. And where the Latin was tempestuous, Varconi is inclined to a repression of technique which is said to put over the effect with no more physical effort than the turn of the eyes or a curl of the lips at the corners of the mouth. This method of acting is very similar in its power and effect to that of the Japanese Hayakawa, called by some "the greatest master of facial expression."

Leatrice Joy is featured in the principal role of "Changing Husbands," which comes to the Dominion Theatre this week. Raymond Griffith, Julia Faye, Saiz Pitts, Helen Dunbar, William Boyd and many others have prominent supporting roles.

Beautiful Swedish Actress Stars in Columbia Feature

"The Blizzard" is Gripping Drama; Portrays European Life

The story of young love is appealing in any language, but particularly appealing as it is played by Mary Johnson, the Swedish actress who has the role of Ingrid in "The Blizzard."

"THE WOMAN ON THE JURY" IS STIRRING STORY WITH UNUSUALLY BRILLIANT CAST

Dramatic Sequel Told in Capitol Film of Book by Bernard K. Burns, Featuring Emotional Crises of Episodes in Real Life

One of the most powerful dramas of the modern screen opens at the Capitol to-day under the title of "The Woman on the Jury." In this new era where women are beginning to take an active part in what was at one time considered as man's exclusive domain, situations occur which are without known precedent.

One such is the feature of the Capitol film where the Woman on the Jury finds her life inextricably bound up with the case she is called upon to hear.

How the woman juror rises to meet the occasion and the dramatic sequel to the story are best left to themselves. The story is told in a fashion that heightens its genuinely interesting plot, and by means of a cast that is unusually well placed. Directed by Harry O. Hoyt, from Bernard K. Burns' famous play, "The Woman on the Jury" is one of the most powerful dramas of the year, in the opinion of all the critics. It is enacted by a remarkable cast, composed of Sylvia Breamer, Frank Mayo, Henry B. Walthall, Hobart Bosworth, Bessie Love, Mary Carr, Myrtle Stedman, Roy Stewart, Jean Hersholt, Ford Sterling, Arthur Lubin, Stanton Heck, Fred Warren, Arthur S. Hull, Kewpie King, J. Edward Davis and Leo White.

Romance and Love Mingle in Latest Playhouse Film

Mabel Ballin is Pleasing Star in Drama of True Life

Authorities differ on the important detail of a play. Shakespeare said "the play's the thing." Many modern authorities have claimed that the story is of second importance to the acting.

"Married People," now showing at the Playhouse, has a recognized star and artist in Mabel Ballin, and the story is one of the most engrossing narratives of love and romance ever adapted to the screen.

The role of Dorothy Cluer is one that is ideally suited to Miss Ballin's charming personality, while Percy Marmont as Robert Cluer and Ernest Hillard as Lord Cranston are both excellently cast.

Mabel Ballin commenced her professional career in Charles Dillingham's musical comedies, following which she appeared in pictures for Famous Players, Goldwyn, Vitaphone, Triangle, Maurice Tourneur and Robertson-Cole. Miss Ballin is also an artist of no mean ability and some of her watercolor and oils have won first honors in amateur exhibits.

GREEN ROOM NOTES

The coming theatrical season will see the return of one of the most popular English stars who have ever toured in Canada, Percy Hutchinson, who scored such a tremendous success here in "The Luck of the Navy" during the season of 1919-20.

Mr. Hutchinson will bring his entire London company of thirty and will present a series of the outstanding London successes, including "Buildup Drummond," "The Haves," "Decommissioned Nights," and at least two others which will be selected later.

Since his last visit to Canada, Mr. Hutchinson has made a tour of South Africa, during which he broke all records for business. The forthcoming tour will be the first of a globe encircling trip which will take him to every important city in the world where the English language is spoken.

The Sistine Choir Solists have left Rome en route to New York, where they are to appear previous to an extensive tour of Canada under the auspices of Theatrical Enterprises, Ltd., and Emmett Moore.

Regal Pictures announces the purchase of "The Mirage," Edgar Selwyn's powerful drama which served as a starring vehicle for Florence Reed a few seasons ago. "The Mirage" will be one of a series of productions made by Regal Pictures at the Thomas H. Ince Studios for release through Producers Distributing Corporation and will star a distinguished actress. The play was a pronounced success when produced at the Selwyn Theatre, New York, its daring theme and the superb acting of Florence Reed crowded the playhouse for an entire season, after which it toured the principal cities.

OF INTEREST TO AUTO TOURISTS

In arranging your Summer trip, you will be pleased to learn that effective July 3, there will be two sailings of the Motor Princess between Bellingham and Sidney, leaving Sidney for Bellingham at 10.45 a.m. and 6.10 p.m., from Bellingham to Sidney at 7 a.m. and 2.30 p.m., daily, including Sunday.

The widower had just taken his fourth wife and was showing her round the village. Among the places visited was the churchyard, and the bride paused before an elaborate tombstone that had been erected by the bridegroom.

Being near-sighted, she asked him to read the inscription, and in reverent tones he read: "Here lies Susan, beloved wife of John Smith, and Mary, beloved wife of John Smith."

He paused abruptly, and the bride, leaning forward to see the bottom line, read to her horror: "Do ye also read."

Music Night at Capitol Theatre

The programme as arranged this week by A. Prescott, conductor of the Music Lover's Night at the Capitol Theatre, is one that no doubt all music loving patrons will be glad to hear. The different numbers to be rendered during the feature film, "The Woman on the Jury," will be well fitted to the picture in all respects.

Some of the numbers to be rendered during the evening are as follows: Overture, "Mikado," Sullivan; March, "Medinah Temple Shrine," Dixon; Selection, "Blue Paradise," Romberg; Waltz from "Blossom Time," Romberg.

A. V. Thomas, the Capitol Theatre organist, has also arranged a special musical programme which will be a great addition to the order of musical numbers.

As an extra added attraction in the evenings, Miss Dorothy Murray, Triple Gold Medalist, of Alberta Dancing Championship in 1924, will give two of her famous dances. Miss Murray comes with a splendid reputation, and dancing enthusiasts of this city will no doubt highly appreciate her capabilities.

SAVES LIFE FOR EVERY FEATHER.—"Mary Jane" is a little known hero. An employee of the Bureau of Mines this canary has saved a life for every feather in her little body. She has been sent out on any number of mine disaster rescue jobs. When the bird begins to droop the rescuers know they are running into gas and are able to protect themselves. Just how many times "Mary Jane" has been brought out unconscious there is no record of.

K.K.K. FORGES RALLY IN NEW JERSEY.—About 15,000 Ku Klux Klansmen gathered in Long Branch, N.J., on July 4. Larger photo shows parade through Long Branch streets by the hooded men, while the other shows those about to be initiated, garbed in black, who also hide their faces.

USED HOME-MADE GUN IN OLYMPICS.—Larson of Des Moines, probably the most picturesque entrant in the Olympic games as he appeared for the rifle-shooting contests carrying a gun he had made by hand. He also used ammunition of his own making.

EMERGENCY CALL

TO MEET INFLUX

Necessary to Increase Facilities Offered at Victoria Auto Camp

So great has been the influx of tourists to the Northwest since the lifting of the fumigation ban by the states bordering California that an emergency meeting has been called by the trustees of the Victoria Auto Camp with the object of providing more accommodation for the growing number of visitors. The numbers this year eclipse all previous records. For several days the number of cars in camp has been ranging between sixty and seventy. Thirty-eight cars rolled in Friday night and during Saturday. Throughout Sunday the cars arrived in greater numbers than the departures.

More tables and more individual camp stoves are essential, although the trustees had already prepared for a larger registration this summer than last summer. The camp trustees, P. Waring and H. P. Johnson, will confer with Aldermen Woodward, Andrews and Ker of the City Council parks committee this evening.

IN SPEED WAGON

Included among the guests at the camp yesterday was a party from the Howard Payne College, Brownwood, Texas. There are three men and six ladies in the party on a geological expedition, and they have been five weeks on the road from Texas. They travel in a well-equipped Reo speed wagon and the weight of their geological duties does not overshadow the enjoyment of the leisure life on the open road. Armed with every need of the camper they soon made themselves at home in the camp. Although they are all equipped with tents, when the weather is suitable they prefer the cloudless sky for a shelter and the hardy healthy life they lead is reflected in their healthy-bronzed faces. The party consists of Prof. O. E. Winebrenner, director, Miss Amanda Seale, chaperone; Miss Faye Alexander, Miss Roberta Evans, Miss Tyline McMahon, Miss Annie Sue Sims, Miss Eva Philbert, Miss Flora Staton, Aubrey Goss and Lawrence Hayes.

HER IDEA

At a big race meeting the following conversation was overheard between a sportsman and his old-fashioned mother, whom he had invited up from the country.

"What on earth have you brought?" said the son, eyeing the parcel his mother carried.

"Well," replied the old lady, "you said in your letter to bring something to put on the horses, and here's an old quilt, but I want it back afterwards."

TELLS OF ADVENTURES IN SOUTHWEST CHINA

J. F. Rock Returns to Washington, D.C.; Found Blight-Resisting Chestnut Tree

Washington, July 14.—Thrilling stories of adventure and interesting scientific discoveries have been reported to the National Geographic Society by Joseph F. Rock, discoverer of the chaulmoogra tree that yields a leprosy-combating oil and leader of the society's expedition into Yunnan, a vast and little explored province in Southwestern China.

Mr. Rock, a well-known plant authority, has just returned to Washington and in narrating his experiences, tells of finding in Yunnan aboriginal tribes who still practice religious ceremonies that predate the introduction of Buddhism, and the discovery of a blight-resisting chestnut tree, which, it is hoped, will aid in restoring the diseased chestnut timber crop in the United States.

MANY SPECIMENS

The explorer brought back from the wilds of the Chinese province some 1,700 specimens of birds, 500 mammal specimens and more than 50,000 plants. He also came into possession of books used by the Nushi, or Miao, priests, containing ancient writing in picture form. The books also antedate Buddhism in China and Tibet and include a story of a great flood.

During his adventures Mr. Rock traversed an hitherto unexplored gorge of the Yangtze River, described as much deeper than the Grand Canyon of the Colorado. The crossing of streams presented one of the most difficult problems of the expedition. Mr. Rock and his twenty-three native assistants and pack animals having to be swung across them on single-strand rope bridges. The party also had narrow escapes from bandits along the China-Tibet frontier.

SMELTER AT TRAIL IS BEING ENLARGED

Eighteen-Month Programme; Better Facilities For Handling Silver-Lead-Zinc Ores

Nelson, B.C., July 14.—An eighteen-month construction programme at the Trail smelter is being started by the Consolidated Mining and Smelting Company of Trail. It includes 130 tons additional capacity for the lead refinery, a dressing mill casting plant for the lead furnaces and additional Dwight and Lloyd roasters. A substantial increase in the zinc refinery is being made. Enlargement of the silver refinery also is being made and a plant installed in connection with it for recovering antimony. A boiler shop is under way and the other auxiliary and repair plants are being further equipped. Four new Cottrell smoke treaters are being added in connection with the various extensions.

When the programme is finished the company will be able to handle its products from the Sullivan silver-lead-zinc mine at Kimberley and all custom ores offering without having to ship any zinc concentrates to Europe.
